

Chakravarti Das is a monk and a spiritual coach.

He has done his MBA (Masters of Business Administration) from Symbiosis Institute of Business Management, Pune (one of the top business schools in India) in 2008. Subsequently he served as Human Resources Manager in WIPRO Technologies. During his professional career he was managing and guiding a team of 5000+ employees around the globe.

In year 2005, he came in touch with the spiritual wisdom of Bhagavad Gita. Since then he has been using his skills to inspire and teach people how to live a happy life based on the teachings of Bhagavad Gita and conducts various such motivational seminars in prestigious universities and corporates.

Seeing the prevalent problems of stress, misdirection, depression, addiction- all caused due to lack of profound wisdom in lives of people , especially youth, he decided to dedicate his life for serving humanity by sharing Gita wisdom under the aegis of ISKCON (International Society for Krishna Consciousness) and thus in 2011 he became a full time monk.

Presently he serves as Director (Resource Development) in ISKCON Juhu, Mumbai. Also, he manages various departments in the organisation. He travels in various parts of the country giving talks on Gita wisdom in Engineering and Business Institutes and Corporate sectors. From last five years he has been conducting “Empowering Youth through Value Education” program in more than 300 various schools in different parts of country.
